

Mayor's Communiqué (November 1, 2009)

On October 19th, I attended the Small Business Boot Camp at the Creston Valley Chamber of Commerce Armitage Center, their theme was “Celebrating Local Ingredients” with about 50 attending. The lunch served was menu food items from our local valley. The Creston Valley was originally settled to promote farming and the agriculture industry with abundant fertile soil and a favourable climate. I believe that we can build on this original concept and promote solid economic growth in the coming years.

Another key ingredient is each of us – citizens who are prepared to get involved and this is usually on a voluntary basis. We are a population of about 13,000 and many are retired from the daily workforce but have active minds and bodies that want to continue to give and grow. By creating a welcome community with better recreation facilities and new business opportunities, our local Creston Valley is the place to be.
